Open the Mac App Store to buy and download apps. NOTE: If you're participating in VP GO, use this app! If you're participating in the Global Challenge, download the Virgin Pulse Global Challenge app instead. The free Virgin Pulse app gives you access to your company's wellbeing program. Get all the key features at your fingertips so you can live on the go. • Keep track of your steps, Active minutes, calories burned and sleep • Track your application rewards and move on to the next milestone • Sync your Max Buzz™ activity tracker for points (must have Bluetooth 4.0 on your phone) • Connect tons of other devices & apps for automatic tracking • Easily sync your iPhone or Apple Watch steps • Share your Virgin Pulse stats with Apple's health app • And more! Let the journey to a healthier, happier you begin. It's going to be epic. Virgin Pulse integrates with the Apple Health app. That way, you can share your iPhone steps, Apple Watch steps, and workout and energy data with Virgin Pulse. We use this data to help you track your activity on the platform. Virgin Pulse supports iOS 12.0 and later. Dec 30, 2020 Version 3.165.2 Thanks for using the Virgin Pulse App! We update our app regularly. This release includes bug fixes and performance improvements. I want to give it 5 stars but no app is without its kinks. This app definitely has room for improvement, but is great for where it's at now! I have personally spent years tracking various aspects of my life, such as health/finance/work through various methods. Virgin Pulse houses all that in 1 place, I love it. And it gives tips and advice, so even better! Navigation is pretty straightforward, but still not as smooth or hassle free as I'd like. Since it houses so much information on different topics, it would be nice, if the user, the ability to organize and group certain parts together at our discretion. Also color coding would be great. It currently has its own version of color coding, which is not explained anywhere. I had to call and ask what ever color meant. I was so thrown out that some goals I was tracking that I was behind on were labeled green. Some were yellow. And others that I did well with were red. It made no sense. But the colors correspond to genres and not to how well you perform on that goal. Either way, I have my personal color preferences I'd like to use. I'm excited to see this app improve and for now will be happy with what it provides, as no other app/journal/or tracker I've ever used even comes close to this one. We need to use this for work to track & app; increase our health & app; well-being and to earn points against reduced benefits. Have some useful tips & app; tricks for better/easier to live & app; organize your life. It's not bad for something that's required, but personally I wouldn't that because it detracts from more productive & app; useful ways for me to achieve these goals than constantly being tied to this app to stop & app; enter everything I do. Makes up backfiring on the very things it's supposed to help & app; feels too much like a chore instead, provoking anxiety & app; stress. Don't customize all that well either and could use better algorithms to provide more appropriate tips for individual situations, rather than just a standard cookie cutter that suits most but not all people. This review comes from an active user with more than 73,000 points, so I'm almost maxed out on the scale with two weeks left in our annual health track requirements. I have far exceeded the target my company sets for us in terms of points. But again, not bad as far as a necessary health tracking tool for employees. Thank you for taking the time to tell us how you feel. We appreciate your feedback. You can rest assured members' opinions matter to us and we suggest sending suggestions on how to improve the app to our support team, via email (support@virginpulse.com), Live Chat (2am-9pm EST, Monday - Friday) or Phone (8am-9pm EST, Monday - Friday). I've been using this app faithfully every day for several years... When you are self-disciplined to live the lifestyle, you can obviously incorporate updating an app to track your dedication... Updating your VP maps and healthy habits just becomes part of the process... but when the app shows them already completed a trend to initially go ahead and think of yourself oh, I must have completed it and forgot I did it... only to find a few days later that tracking shows you missing several days, which is very annoying because when these days are skipped there is no way to make up 'card' points! Becoming more aware of this happening, I have opened and closed the app 3-4 times before it registers the current day is in fact still requiring completion.. I'm sure everyone can agree in today's overly busy society no one has the time or patience to deal with this type of glitch long term.. we are conditioned today when things are not working properly to fix it or replace it... I lost interest in logging into Facebook, and the app allows us to connect with the most important people in our lives... so if this factor alone could not inspire me to overlook all the disadvantages of FB, I'm not too sure I'll maintain interest in using this intermittently functioning app to track the daily routine of my already established dedication to living a healthy lifestyle. All new partners can be implemented as individual third-party offerings, and four can also be implemented as part of VP+, Virgin Pulse's partner solution announced at THRIVE earlier this year, enabling a connected healthcare experience through a collection of seven integrated partners in a single-cost purchase solution with significant cost savings. With the increased and urgent focus COVID has placed on health and well-being, employers are embracing digital tools to support employees in maintaining their health as they adapt to a new normal, especially in mental health, addiction, sleep, physical activity, economic well-being, musculoskeletal care as well as high risk conditions like hypertension and heart disease. As employers add partner solutions to address the specific needs of their organizations, Virgin Pulse's Homepage for Health provides a seamless, personalized way for employees to engage in these programs directly forming the Virgin Pulse platform. Crucial to Virgin Pulse's Home Base for Health™ ecosystem, these partner offerings have passed rigorous security assessments to integrate with Virgin Pulse and provide a unified user experience that allows members to easily incorporate new well-being activities into their daily routines directly from their Virgin Pulse app. Homepage for Health™ unites, simplifies and adapts member health and well-being while providing Virgin Pulse customers with a one-stop shop for managing and orchestrating partner health and wellbeing benefits and solutions and streamlining complex contracts, procurement, eligibility, reporting and billing. Virgin Pulse's Homepage for Health™ makes whole-person health and well-being more accessible to members and more streamlined for customers. The following health and well-being solution providers have become part of Virgin Pulse's growing partner network with innovative, preconfigured integrations that solve a number of pressing issues: Biometrics with Quest DiagnosticsHeart Health and Hypertension Management with Hello HeartConditions Management with Helpsy HealthFamily women's health with Ovia HealthFinancial Well-being with Enrich™ and myFITageFitness with Aaptiv and Quality and cost transparency with Healthcare BluebookMental well-being with Headspace and SilverCloud HealthMusculoskeletal Care with Hinge Health and Kaia HealthSmoking and Addiction Cessation with EX Program by Truth Initiative and Quit Genius Sleep Management with dayzz Wellbeing, conditions management, digital therapy, and more constitutes a complex and disconnected ecosystem of point solutions to health and well-being. Complexity and friction prevent members from engaging with resources to manage their own holistic journeys of well-being and make it harder for employers to understand and manage the health of the general population and the associated costs, says David Osborne, CEO of Virgin Pulse. Virgin Pulse simplifies the way employers, health plans, and health consumers interact with their well-being, health and healthcare by providing members with their own Homepage for Health™, with direct access to partner solutions and services. Achieve holistic well-being with Virgin Pulse and partners: All partners are integrated through Virgin Pulse's built-in API and/or single-sign-on features that give members access to partner features and features directly from Virgin Pulse. This provides a more personalized experience and allows members to track and record engagements toward goals, progress, and rewards, and as they interact with partners, each member's Virgin Pulse record expands to fully reflect ecosystem engagement, progress, and application completion — all in one place. For members: Accessing all health and well-being tools in one place facilitates a more seamless experience. Unified data tracking allows members to set, track, and manage their progress toward goals as they improve lifestyle habits, facilitate day-to-day relationship management, and improve overall behavioral health. For customers: Virgin Pulse provides flexibility and configurability to meet the specific needs of client organizations. Virgin Pulse's partner ecosystem unlocks the value of customer investment in point solutions by driving member engagement and utilization of these third-party benefits and programs. Virgin Pulse's artificial intelligence (AI)-based recommendations span all available benefits when driving members to the resources that will ease their goals, respond to health risks, and promote healthy habits. Centralization of member engagement data allows customers to see and respond to health and well-being trends and cost factors across the organization. For Partners: Virgin Pulse's rewards and AI-led recommendations drive targeted engagement in partner health and well-being solutions, and ext adaptive to customers while raising awareness of partner offerings among the customer's member population. As members complete their health assessments in and begin to engage with Virgin Pulse, they are targeting curated tools, maps, travel, apps, coaching, and other resources, some of which are delivered directly from partners that healthy habits and lifestyles. Virgin Pulse's advanced analytics and microtargeting capabilities ensure that the right partner content and recommendations are delivered to the right members at the right time.
